Mobilization in Argentina.

From April to June, we ran a facilitator training course to train eight new facilitators, two of them will serve in Simply Mobilizing Chile's team.

During the month of June, we ran a sending course with twelve participants who want to be ready to serve the Lord in mission fields; five of them will go to the ships' ministry over the next nine months. The five were encouraged to take this step by the testimony and experience of others who are already onboard, and four of them belong to the same church where the person who challenged them used to attend before joined the ship.

A couple of pastors participated in the course with the intention of developing their own Church as a sending church for workers. This couple, along with their two kids, traveled to Japan on a Vision Trip this year, which was very inspiring for them and their church, so they return mobilized about missions and the need of those who never heard.

We were also in northeastern Argentina, where we were able to offer the Interface Seminar for pastors and Church's leaders of seven churches in the region. They came from the provinces of Chaco, Formosa, and Corrientes.

One of the pastors who handled all the logistics for the course and who was mobilizing the rest of the church also made short trips to the Logos Hope and to North Africa, and his son served aboard Logos Hope for several years. If we (the mission agency) work as a team with the local church, the influence of those who go could be extremely mobilizing for others, so we want to promote good communication between those who are in the fields and the local church, and short-term missionary trips as a missionary mobilization strategy for Argentina.

In our local church, we are mentoring some new people (couples) who joined the church, also going alongside with those who are going through various difficulties in their marriage and families. We cry out to God for wisdom in every situation... and we are amazed to see how the Lord works, transforming the lives of those who surrender themselves into His hands.
